Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford car can well be called the "peoples car," because there are more than 3,000,000 of them in daily operation. That is about four to one of the nearest follower in the motor car industry. This would not be so if the Ford car had not for sixteen years proven its superiority in service, in durability, and in the low cost for operation and maintenance; this would not be so if the Ford car was not so easy to understand, so simple in construction that anybody and everybody can safely drive it. Let us have your order for one now to avoid delay in delivery.

GEORGE BURKE, Grayling, Mich.

TEACHERS MET IN GRAYLING

MOST SUCCESSFUL INSTITUTE.

Teachers and Others Profit from Instructions and Lecture.

The Teacher's institute held in the auditorium of the High school building Monday and Tuesday of this week was pronounced by all who attended the best ever held in Grayling.

Prof. Larzele, head of the History department at Mt. Pleasant, conducted the institute and made possible its success. On Monday he gave a most instructive lecture on "Geographical Influences in History," a phase often times not considered in solving problems of mankind.

On Tuesday his lecture on Michigan history was most instructive and interesting. Professor Larzele has made especial study of the topography and legends of our state.

On Monday the Hon. F. B. Pearson of Columbus, Ohio, gave two fine lectures, "Motives" and "The School and the Community." In both lectures he carried away his audience. In a most fanciful manner he brought out the responsibility of school and community to the child. Great disappointment was expressed at his not being able to remain for an evening lecture. In the afternoon a number of club women and business men were present. Supt. Pearson is a most forceful and effective speaker. He says things worth hearing.

On Tuesday, Miss A. Jackson of the Ypsilanti Training school gave two splendid and helpful lectures on "Ideals in Reading" and "Socializing Problems in arithmetic." She brot out some of the problems the school must face and carried out what she advised and advocated while she taught a most pleasing second grade reading class.

The Grayling teachers are to be complimented on the capable manner in which they put on the dramatizations, drills and songs.

The self-serve luncheon by the Senior class was most delicious and nicely served.

The reception by the Parent-Teacher's club was a very pleasant and enjoyable occasion. The music by the "Jazz Jazz" orchestra was fine.

The institute was well attended and altho only relatively a small part of the rural schools are supplied with teachers, thirty-nine were enrolled.

Such an inspiring institute as we had this year will surely bring results.

BABITT-BARBER.

A simple, but pretty wedding took place at eight o'clock Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber, when their daughter Miss Leta Alice was united in marriage to Mr. Daniel Clyde Babbitt of Grayling. Justice Allen B. Failing performed the ceremony. The bride was dressed in peach colored georgette and carried a bouquet of white carnations. They were attended by Miss Edna Babbitt, a cousin of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Clarence Barber, a brother of the bride acted as groomsmen.

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion with autumn leaves and bouquets of pink and white asters, and immediately after the ceremony refreshments were served, covers being laid for twenty-two. Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt left on the midnight train amid the well wishes of all present on a wedding trip to Toledo, Ohio. They expect to go from Toledo to Detroit to make their home for the winter.

Mr. Babbitt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben S. Babbitt of Grayling, and a month ago returned from several months' service overseas. Both the bride and groom have many friends in the county who extend best wishes and congratulations.

W. B. A. OF MACCABEES CELEBRATED THEIR PEACE JUBILEE AT PORT HURON LAST WEEK, SEPTEMBER 15, 16, 17.

Many Women were there from all Over the United States and Canada.

Grayling Review No. 76, W. B. A. of Maccabees was represented by Lady Commander Rose Balhoff and four Pathfinders Rose Christianson, Hazel Ewalt, Lelia Kidston and Blanche Hull.

Grayling Review won 3rd prize—a large Banner.

Lansing was first; Hancock, second and Grayling, third in the State of Michigan. There were eight given in the whole of the United States. These Banners were given to Reviews having the largest net gain in the last year according to the size of population. Grayling's quota was forty thousand and they went over the top. One Pathfinder for every 10 thousand and insurance and they had four Pathfinders at the convention. The people of Grayling should be proud of having such an order in their midst, and that they brought home one of the State trophies.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to thank the W. B. A. of the Maccabees for the flowers sent me during my illness. I also appreciate the many kindnesses of my friends during that time.

Mrs. Newell Underhill.

A FOREIGNER'S IMPRESSIONS FROM AN AMERICAN CROSS TRIP.

In the latter part of June I left Grayling for the West. The railroad to the Michigan lake runs first thru a hilly clover land in many places devastated by forest fires—a real wilderness with black stumps of burned trees amongst an almost impenetrable upgrowth of scrub oak and maple—once in a while a log cabin and a track in the sand winding through the wilderness. We follow the course of the Manistee river, the country begins to change character—cultivated fields, but with a scarce crop, little farms and as we come nearer the shore big fruit gardens with apples, cherries and peaches. The country is now fertile and level and with its big farms half hidden by the trees it reminds you of Sjalland, but for the fine old churches with their beautiful towers. You will see churches enough but it looks as if the importance were attached more to the pulpit and not to the beauty. In the night I crossed the Michigan Lake and had the feeling that I was out at sea. The steamer jumped and tumbled from side to side, not that it blew very much, but the balance of the old steamer was very bad—it was too high and without deep draught. I should not like to cross the lake on board it in a heavy gale. In the morning I arrived at Milwaukee and the steamer went up a little river with old smoky warehouses and factories on both sides and through a lot of bridges. With its oily dirty water, its big freighters and ships and the old-fashioned buildings around it, the river did remind me of a Hamburg "fleete." But only a little part of Milwaukee is devoted to business. As usual a few straight streets with big skyscrapers form the business quarter and around it are a number of avenues with the residences. The Americans don't like to live in flats together with other people, they prefer to have a house for themselves, even if it is a little modest wooden cottage. Along the shore of the Michigan lake there were beautiful avenues with splendid shade trees and a lot of stately cottages, some more like pretty castles—built of sandstone and half covered by ivy—like English country seats. Naturally some were horrible and it was easy to see, that the many Germans living in the city had built their houses according to bad German style. At midnight I went on board my sleeper.

For an European an American sleeper is a little of a trying experience and I don't understand how the bashful Americans can stand this mixing up of the two sexes. I don't like to see a lady climb the ladder to slip in the upper berth, but I don't like to do it myself. The morning scenery in the car is sometimes more than funny—marking in negligence especially to the ladies is not always attractive. But I confess that you have an excellent bed when first you have got into it, have undressed and donned your pajamas. The movements of the car are gentle and you don't feel them much, as you are lying lengthwise in the car. I awakened next morning in the State of Minnesota. The railroad followed the shore of a beautiful Mississippi—broad, majestic, sometimes encircling forests covered little islands. At places the hills on both sides of the river slope up to real mountains, but generally the country was a fertile slightly undulating farm land. We passed beautiful St. Paul crownin a hill top with its "Capitol dome and Minneapolis with its big flour mills—Pillsbury's Best and ventured into a fertile farmland. The landscape was like a Danish, little hills crowned with clumps of trees, pretty farm buildings, beautiful lakes embraced by forests, a fertile rich country, where rich pretty green crop waved before a gentle breeze. I had the feeling, that I was on board a liner crossing the sea. The last car contained a bathroom, a parlor, a smoking room and an observation platform, from which we saw the landscape as we passed. The feeling was stronger, when we came into Dakota and passed its immense treeless plains, which you, even without a strong fancy, could take for the sea. As on board a ship the passengers very easily made acquaintances with each other and in the evening we were sitting in the darkness on the platform telling stories even ghost-stories, while mile after mile of the country disappeared in the darkness. Next morning we were in Montana. The landscape had changed color from fertile green to yellow brown. Trees and vegetation got scarce and about noon we entered the mountains after having crossed a muddy yellow river—the Yellowstone.

The mountains were barren without trees and grass and looked more like enormous hills of clay. The track commenced to wind through narrow canyons and train to climb upwards. The train was now run by electricity and conquered easily the steep slopes. We were in the Rockies and the train worked itself continually upwards, soon following the course of a little swift running river, soon disappearing into tunnels and soon passing bridges, spanning deeps, that made us dizzy. We passed plateaus irrigated by numbers of little ditches and others, that looked more like stony deserts, and at last at nightfall we saw deep down thousands of lights sparkling up a mountain slope, but the biggest mining city in the States. Through switching back down a mountain side we reached the valley and the city, stopped for a moment and then anew out in the darkness. At three o'clock I reached Missoula, where my friends were waiting for me with their car and then forth in the night, we went into a valley, the air was filled with the fragrance of the newly mown hay and though it was too dark to see anything, I had the feeling that I was coming into a well cultivated farmland. Every moment the light from our big headlights awakened herds of cattle and horses sleeping at the wayside—undoubtedly the farmers had

BIG STEEL STRIKE AFFECTS 500,000

WALKOUT OF IRON WORKERS
HITS BUILDING OPERATION AND AUTO PLANTS.

DISORDERS ARE IN EVIDENCE

Several People Shot in Pittsburgh District First Day of Strike—Both Sides Defiant.

Pittsburgh.—The preliminary skirmish in the great industrial struggle between the labor unions and the United States Steel Corporation, which directly or indirectly affects 500,000 wage-earners, produced the usual conflicting claims by the generals on both sides.

A number of mills continued operation Monday but with greatly reduced forces.

The automobile industry, all building operations will be first to feel the effects of the curtailed production and, if the strike continues for a long time, may be forced to suspend.

Seven Shot At Newcastle.

Pittsburgh.—Disorders, so much feared by police authorities in the steel strike zones, were in evidence Monday night in several places in the Pittsburgh district. The most serious occurrence was at New Castle, Pa., 50 miles from Pittsburgh, in which seven persons were shot, one probably fatally, in a riot at a Carnegie mill gate.

The trouble started when a crowd of about 400 persons attempted to prevent mill workers entering the plant. About 20 workmen were being assaulted, when the mill guards, consisting of deputy sheriffs, came to their rescue.

The mill guards were met with a volley of bricks, stones and clubs. They drew their revolvers and attempted to hold the mob at bay, but the shower of missiles continued and the crowd refused to disperse.

Both Sides Determined.

Pittsburgh.—The nation-wide strike in the steel industry finds both sides in the contest apparently prepared for the battle.

William Z. Foster, secretary of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, late Sunday sent a telegram to Governor Sprout protesting "unwarranted attacks" by the state police on the strength of the clashes between members of the constabulary and iron and steel workers and sympathizers at North Clairton and McKeesport.

It was expected that several hundred thousand men would head the order to strike, although the estimates of the employers and union organizers varied.

National leaders of labor unions involved have long prepared for the strike in the event they could not make a settlement. They say they are prepared for a bitter battle and would not have gone into it if they were not sure they could sustain the struggle.

Large sums of money will be required to finance the strike. Confidence has been expressed that money will not be lacking.

DUCK HUNTER SHOTS WIFE

Hurried Shot At Fowl Fatal—Woman Instantly Killed.

Detroit.—Aiming to bring down a last duck to equal the game his hunting partner, Woodward Lawson, 32 years old, accidentally shot and instantly killed his wife, in a marsh off Island Lake Sunday morning.

Mrs. Lawson had just emptied a duck, and was pointing her finger at it, when her husband, taking hurried aim, shot in the direction of the game. His wife, who was in the immediate path of the shot, received the full discharge in the back of her head.

ITALY WANTS TO HOLD FIUME

Tells Allies That Italian Troops Cannot Dislodge D'Annunzio.

London.—The Italian government has appealed to the Allied powers to send an Allied force, exclusive of Italians, to drive D'Annunzio out of Fiume, according to a report here which is considered reliable.

The Italian government, it is reported, has pointed out in its appeal that it would be difficult for Italy to handle the situation in view of D'Annunzio's popularity with the Italian people, and also because of the fact that the Fiume decision has been a thorn in the side of the Italians.

Macomb Quiz Reveals Profiteering. Mt. Clemens.—Prosecuting Attorney Johnston says investigations of profiteering by Macomb County food dealers, conducted by Forest Quick, of the fair price committee, shows that a number of the dealers are using short measures. As to food prices, the investigation shows that dealers are not making excess profits, according to Johnston. On meat sales, it is said price gouging in the county has been rampant, and that the meat profiteers have been reported.

"BIG 5" PACKERS KILL COMPETITION

INDEPENDENT DEALERS TESTIFY THAT BARONS ARE FORCING THEM TO WALL.

Witnesses Who Suffered By Alleged Unfair Practices of Big Packers Testify At Lansing.

Lansing.—Alleged efforts of the big meat packers to drive independent operators out of the various Michigan fields were revealed by witnesses in the state inquiry into profiteering, in session before Judge Howard West of the circuit court here.

Evidence given by men who had actually suffered from underselling and other methods of business, claimed to be unfair by the Chicago corporation, was designed to prove that these efforts had, in most cases, been entirely successful.

The "Big Five" tactics followed, according to the testimony, two clearly defined lines. The first was the cutting of prices in the wholesale market to a point where the independents found it impossible to follow and continue in business, and the other was the flooding of specified markets in advance of expected shipments of beef and other meats by the local dealers with the intention of preventing the disposal of stocks by the latter.

The impression gained from the recital of these facts was that such independent competition as exists now in the Michigan field is there on sufferance; that it could be wiped out of existence almost overnight by the use of the weapons said to have been used in the past by the Chicago packers whenever the operations of the independents became bothersome in any serious degree.

George Zimmer, of the Bay City Packing company, told of the gradual reduction of the territory covered by the operations of his business through the underselling of Swift & Co., Schwartzchild and Sulzberger (now Wilson & Co.) and Hammond, Standish & Co. The final blow came when the three big packers named all cut prices as much as six or seven cents a pound, and Zimmer threw up his hands in despair and retired from the field desired by the "Big Five," never to enter again.

Zimmer also told of the unfair, but effective, tactics of the same competitors in preventing him from buying in markets in which they were interested as purchasers. He had been buying hogs around Bay City for several years and had been practically unmolested by the "Big Five." One day, however, he ventured into the Detroit market as a buyer. To his consternation, by the time he had shipped his Detroit-bought hogs to Bay City and had slaughtered and dressed them and was ready to sell, the "Big Five" operators, he said, had flooded the Bay City market with hogs and had forced prices down so low that Zimmer was compelled to sell at a substantial loss. The experience cured him of his temerity in entering the sacred fields of the big fellows.

RATIFY TREATY, SAYS LANSING

Secretary Breaks Silence Following Accusation of Peace Party Member.

Waterbury, N. Y.—"The treaty should be ratified without delay and without change," Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, declared here in the first public utterance made by him since the statement of William C. Bullitt before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in which it was alleged the Secretary of State, on May 19, in Paris, said that if the American people knew what was in the treaty they would defeat it.

"In the Treaty of Peace," Mr. Lansing further said, "there is nothing which invades the sovereignty of this republic or which limits in any way the full existence of such sovereignty."

BLAME WILSON FOR FIUME ROW

Rome Paper Says Other Allies Are Willing to Give City to Italy.

Rome.—The Messaggero says David Lloyd George, the British premier, M. Clemenceau, the French premier, and Signor Tittoni, the Italian foreign minister are in perfect accord over a definite solution of the Fiume question insuring the Italian nationality of the town and are only awaiting President Wilson's decision on the subject.

Robbers Hold Up 75 Farm Hands.

Fargo, N. D.—Eleven holdup men "stuck up" 75 harvest hands in the Osakes Railroad yards and robbed them of about $1,300 in cash. The bandits were caught by a deputy sheriff, who organized a posse, and rounded up the gang. The robbers, to prevent the harvesters from giving the alarm, attempted to make them remove their clothing so they would not be able to spread the alarm. A boy observed the performance from a distance and notified a deputy sheriff.

Immigration Exceeds Departures.

Washington—Exceeding the "hysteria" that exists in relation to emigration, Anthony Camerlitti, commissioner general of immigration, has issued a statement showing that only slightly over 100,000 foreigners have left the United States since the armistice. For the five years ended June 30, 1919, 618,223 emigrants departed, as compared with 1,172,679 immigrant arrivals for the same period; the statement points out—an excess of arrivals over departures of 554,456.

He was born in Crawford county, Pennsylvania, May 5, 1856.

BULGARIAN FRONTIER CHANGED

Part of Ferdinand's Territory and All War Plunder Given to Allies.

Washington.—The summary of the Bulgarian treaty of peace cabled to the state department by the American peace commission at Paris shows the pact to follow the same general plan as the Austrian treaty.

Some of the outstanding points in the treaty are:

Bulgaria must reduce her army to 20,000 men, give up her navy, surrender all airships and pay in 37 years an indemnity of $250,000,000 francs.

Western Thrace must be ceded to the Allies and the western frontier is altered considerably to the advantage of Serbia.

All plunder taken in the war must be returned, and, as special compensation for the destruction of Serbian coal mines, Bulgaria must deliver 50,000 tons of coal annually to the Serb, Croat and Slovene states.

Many clauses, such as the League of Nations, labor, aerial navigation, penalties, prisoners of war and graves, except for the substitution of names, are identical with the Austrian Treaty.

POLICE NAB BANK ROBBERS

Gang Who Held Up Grand Rapids Bank Caught in Detroit.

Detroit.—Identified by two witnesses of the hold-up of the Grandville avenue branch of the Grand Rapids Savings Bank in which about $5,500 in cash and Liberty Bonds was taken and a man killed last Friday morning, three of the four men implicated—Toff Leon, alias Tom Leon, Alfy Hamden and John Herbig, were arrested here and are said to have confessed.

The name and description of the fourth man in the gang was also furnished the police. All of the bandits have police records.

The men were arrested singly, largely on information furnished by James Bright, a porter in a Grand Rapids restaurant, who had overheard the plans for the robbery. It is said.

TEXAS STORM TOOK HEAVY TOLL

List of Dead, Still Incomplete, May Reach Five Hundred.

Corpus Christi, Texas.—Rapid growth of the death list resulting from the hurricane and tidal wave that swept Corpus Christi and nearby points a week ago Sunday caused the belief among the relief workers and local officials that the total dead would approximate 500.

Reconstruction of the city is temporarily in the background, civic leaders agree, but the 3,000 to 4,000 homeless are being cared for and in most cases provided with wearing apparel, as a majority lost all personal effects.

Admits Murder 23 Years Ago.

Urbana, Mo.—Brought back to his old Missouri home because of a debt he says he does not owe, Robert Hicks, formerly a farmer of Hickory County, now stands accused by his own voluntary confession of the murder of his 19-year-old daughter, 23 years ago. Hicks unfolded the story of how, on a lone home part of his farm, Dec. 7, 1896, he strangled his daughter Lucille, with a piece of heavy twine, because, in a fit of rage, she had threatened to shoot him.

French Troops Sent to Armenia.

Paris.—Ten thousand French troops are to be sent into Armenia according to Mersina and Alexandretta, through an understanding reached by the British and French for a realignment of their forces in Asia minor. These troops will replace the British troops for the most part, and while the number is not large enough to keep up a line of communications far north into Armenia, it is agreed that the French will have a steady effect on the Armenian situation.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—Only 21 votes were cast at the school election to vote on the proposed $30,000 additional bond issue. Two negative votes were recorded. The additional bond issue was necessitated by the sharp advance in the cost of building materials and labor since the $110,000 additions were ordered.

New York.—Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor, predicts that America and Europe will soon be "connected" by wireless telephones. JOHNSON SPEAKS IN MINNESOTA

Talks in Morning at St. Paul; Duluth in Evening.

RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

California Senator Cuts His Speaking Tour Short in Order to Lead Fight in Senate for His Amendment.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 20.—Senator Hiram Johnson announced at the conclusion of his speech here that he would not complete his speaking engagements in the West, but would return to Washington to lead the fight in the senate for the adoption of his amendment to the League of Nations covenant relative to the voting power of the United States and England. He made the decision regardless of telegrams from Senator Lodge and Senator Knox urging him to continue to the coast and assuring him they would champion his amendment.

In his two addresses in Minnesota in the morning at St. Paul before the state legislature sitting in joint session and at night here before an audience that packed the local armory—the attitude of those who heard him was positive, and apparently representative of that of the people of the Minnesota house and senate and the men and women who made up his audience at Duluth, again and again answered his attacks upon the league and the peace treaty by getting on their feet and shrieking approval of his arguments.

The senator believes that the situation as he seems to have found it in Minnesota is similar to that in every other state he has visited. He is convinced, he says, that the people here are against that acceptance of the covenant and against it by large majority, although they were openly for the league two months ago.

Change of Attitude.

"This change of attitude," he said here, "has been brought about not by me or by my oratory but just because the real truth about the league is at last becoming a matter of common understanding."

A reflection of the shift of opinion in this state was seen during the general assembly address. Several months ago the Minnesota state legislature passed a resolution endorsing the league and pledging support to the president's program for unimpaired acceptance of the document. During the speech all but several members of the assembly jumped to their feet upon four occasions and shouted and stamped their feet as Mr. Johnson called for allegiance to his anti-league doctrine, which he proclaimed as "just American."

In the morning he spoke to the representatives of the people of the state. In the evening he addressed the people directly. Like the morning address, the night speech was received with intense enthusiasm. The armory, which normally seats 4,000 persons, contained a crowd estimated at 5,000.

Mr. Johnson relieved himself here as usual of his aversion for subjugating the United States to European and Asiatic domination.

"We are the only solvent, going nation," he said, "and yet we have formed a partnership with bankrupt nations. And these bankrupts, after our late experience in meddling and muddling in European and Asiatic politics, have come secretly to detest us and to despise us."

Could Compose Better League.

Several times in his speeches, he has said he would have composed a League of Nations covenant that would not be an affront to America and would represent the people of the world, rather than the rulers. Along this line he would have an ideal element in such a proposed document, provided that every signatory agreed to it.

"Give the women of the world, who bear the greatest burdens of a war, opportunity to decide whether they will send their sons and husbands against the sons and husbands of others," he suggested, "but this present league does not consider the people of the world nor the mothers and husbands of the soldiers of the generation, nor the next. This league goes further from the people, rather than closer to them; it is a league of rulers, sitting in secret, formulating war plans in order to maintain their territorial grabs and to reach out for further gains."

FIREMEN TO QUIT UNION

Dry Comfort Was Meant.

A senator, replying at a political meeting in Asheville to a question put by a member of his audience, said: "My friend, you misunderstood my point. Your question reminds me of the minor's wife."

"Tell your husband," the minister said to her, "that I will call round this afternoon and administer a little spiritual comfort."

"He'll be so glad if you do, sir," the minor's wife answered, "because there have closed saloons have certainly hit him where he lives."

ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON.

County of Crawford.

On this 5th day of September, 1919, before me a Notary Public in and for said County, personally came Waldo E. Herron, who being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is the bankrupt named above, that he has read the foregoing petition by him subscribed and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true of his own knowledge.

Out of the Mouths of Babies.

The trouble was caused by father's chickens and his habit of calling them "chicks" for short. At least Bobby thinks it was. He and mother were on the car when one of mother's friends entered. She wore a new hat which was adorned with a beautiful green feather. Bobby was eyeing the feather when he heard mother say to the woman, "You're so chic, you know."

So he drew his own inferences and acted accordingly when the cross next-door neighbor, resplendent in few yellow furs, came to call. He looked at the furs on the woman and then at his mother. Then

"Now, you can call her a cat, mother," he informed her.

Cure for Malignant Measles.

Doctors Dumas and Brissaud of Paris report the case of a man in the last stage of malignant measles, with death in coma threatening. A transfusion of blood from a man who had recovered a week before from uncomplicated measles was resorted to. Two hundred mls of the donor's blood were received in 25 mls containing one gram of sodium citrate, and about 100 mls of the mixture were administered. Within a few hours there occurred not only a temporary fall in temperature but a complete transformation of the patient's general condition. A relapse occurred and another injection of blood was given. An unexpected recovery followed.

Good Opinion of Himself.

At the station the other day a naval officer on leave was met by his wife and small son. After greeting his wife the father lifted up the boy and kissed him several times and said, "Oh, you don't know how glad papa is to see you!" The boy answered, "You'll be gladder when you get acquainted with me."

An Old Fault Finder.

An irritable and fault-finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. Adv.

Readers of the Avalanche have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills.

The experiences told are not those of unknown persons, living far away. The cases are Grayling cases, told by Grayling people.

Sixteen young ladies were guests of Miss Nellie Charleson last Thursday evening in honor of Miss Doris LaGrow, a bride of Tuesday. The bride-elect was showered with towels of every description.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Doris M. LaGrow becomes the Bride of Mr. Leo E. Seymour.

St. Mary's church has been the scene of many happy affairs, of late and the wedding held Tuesday morning, when Miss Doris Marie LaGrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex LaGrow of this city and Mr. Leo Earl Seymour, son of Mrs. George Marentette of Turner, Mich., were the principals, was no exception. Gladiolas and lilies and the lighted candles that adorned the altars made a most lovely setting for the affair. Miss LaGrow who entered the church with her sister Miss Carrie LaGrow, was a charming bride in her snow-white wedding gown of beaded georgette. Her veil was prettily arranged about her head and she wore a corsage bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's becoming gown was of peach colored georgette, combined with tulle of the same shade. She wore a black picture hat and her corsage was of pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Ebbon LaGrow, a brother of the bride.

Rev. Fr. J. J. Riess performed the ceremony and was assisted at the altar by three of the bride's brothers, Henry, Wesley and Francis LaGrow, while Miss Maude Seymour, a sister of the groom, rendered the wedding march and also acted as accompanist for the choir during the law mass. Mr. Lionel LaGrow officiated as usher. Among the out-of-town guests, who came for the occasion, were Mr. and Mrs. George Marentette and Miss Marie Marentette, Miss Maude Seymour and Mr. George Kelley all of Turner, Mich., Messrs. Ebbon and Lionel LaGrow of Detroit and Mrs. Daniel McManis of Frederic.

At the home of the bride, after the ceremony, breakfast was served to the bridal party and at noon relatives and a few close friends enjoyed a wedding dinner. The happy pair are enjoying a honeymoon trip to Montreal, Quebec, making the steamer trip from Montreal. After leaving Quebec they will go to Chicago, where they will be guests of relatives of the groom. They expect to be gone a month and on their return will make their home in Detroit. Mrs. Seymour has made her home in Grayling for the past three years and during that time has been a most efficient clerk at the Grayling Mercantile Co. store. Being of a sweet disposition and charming personality, she has endeared herself to many.

The groom has been in Grayling but a year or more, and has been employed as ticket agent for the M. C. R. R. during that time. Both have taken part in the different social affairs, among which circles they will be missed very much by their friends.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville, Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea remedy and to take no substitute. I took a double dose of it according to the directions and went to sleep. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping place, a well man." Adv.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

The Otsego County Co-operative Association through its President and General Manager, H. G. Ward shows a net gain for the association during the past year of $2361.11 over and above the cost of operation. The membership paid in $1820 at the time of the annual meeting. The association shipped 5,437,015 pounds of potatoes, and figuring the same margin between the price to the jobber and grower as prevailed last year according to the department of Agriculture reports, each farmer shipping thru the association got 29 cents per cwt. more than he would have got, making $15,767.34 more money placed in the hands of the farmer than he might have expected had he not associated.

the had custom of letting their cattle graze on the roads. Little by little the light came. First I could distinguish only the mountains as shadowy masses in the darkness, but every moment the outlines became more distinct, gradually the sky changed from dark blue to yellow blue and the mountains showed their rugged peaks against the background, which every moment became more and more golden. At last the sun peeped over the mountain tops and then nature awakened in the valley. The birds began to sing and twitter and the cattle to bellow—it was a wonderful morning, when I arrived in Corvallis. This is only a little place—40 or 50 houses in the middle of the Bitter Root valley, which is located more than three thousand feet over the sea level. The valley is about twenty miles wide and has a depth of maybe 200 miles. On both sides the mountain ranges rise about 3,000 feet over the valley. It is an ideal valley, even more ideal than Jack London's valley of the moon. Very seldom they have rain or snow and though the elevation is not insignificant, the frost is never disagreeable in the wintertime. From lakes in the mountains the water is led through big canals to the valley and from the canals through innumerable ditches to the farmland, so that the farmers can irrigate the land, as much as they like. As the soil in many places is rich, the farmers or ranchers as they are called here, are doing well. Often their ranches have fine buildings at least they look cozy, surrounded as they are by trees and fruit gardens. I stayed for some time in Corvallis and as my friends didn't take their meals at home but at a restaurant—(my friend's wife didn't like cooking and a cook was not to be had for money.) I took up my hotel in a small dress. Now hotel is maybe not just the name for the place, better call it a boarding-house, and I lived there as with a family. We were a strange company at the dinner table—well-to-do farmers, cowboys, riders and day laborers from the farms, but we felt as belonging to one family. Most of us were dressed in a pair of corduroy pants and belt round the waist, a brown woolen shirt with the shirt-sleeves rolled up over the elbows and without collar or necktie. Usually I had for neighbor at the table a professor, director of a school in the State, who worked on a farm as day-laborer during his vacation. Don't tell that America is not a democratic land—he was a fine, well-educated man and very interesting.

I passed the time during my stay in Corvallis strolling around in the country looking at the farming and I confess, that this did not enthrall me. The farmers did not use rotation nor fertilizing, they raised the same crop for several years in the same field, they considered the straw as a nuisance and burned it and some even sold their manure. A little more scientific farming would not have been out of place. But the country was so rich, they didn't care for more trouble than necessary. It was a wonder to see fruit gardens, in many places the trees were covered with cherries and apples, so that the boughs were hanging to the ground. The mountain ranges on each side of the valley were wonderful. Most of the day they were covered by a blue haze, but in the evening the color changed to purple and formed the most beautiful contrast to the golden evening sky. Creeks had in the cause of time formed canyons in the ranges and it was my greatest pleasure, though a little tiresome, to venture into these canyons. Often there was no trail through the dense undergrowth and it was necessary to follow the creeks, which had not much water in the summer season, jumping from boulder to boulder. The crystal clear water rippled among the boulders and the babbling from the creek was the only sound that disturbed the stillness of nature. Sitting quietly on a boulder I could follow the animal life in the creek, see the slender tree snake hunting for food; see the big ground hogs jumping around and follow the pretty striped chipmunks in their play.

One day I went to one of the bigger canyons in the bottom of the valley. A broad but shallow creek went through it, in places it widened to plains, where lonely majestic firs strove to push their heads over the surrounding mountains, but mostly the canyon was narrow and the mountain slopes were steep and covered with forest. In there, many miles from human dwellings, we made our camp. My friends went out fishing and in the afternoon they came back with the basket filled with pretty trout. A fire was made and we had a splendid supper in surroundings, that heightened the pleasure. We stayed there for the night. The weather was beautiful, in the morning it would be a little chilly in the tent, but then we went outside and enjoyed nature awakening—maybe the most wonderful sight in this world. Near the camp we saw tracks of deer and bear, who had been down to the river in the early morning to drink, but we didn't see neither of them. We hadn't, funny enough, any visits of bear, they are very curious but on the other hand very scarce.

After some weeks stay in Corvallis I left for Glacier Park. I passed Missoula a pretty city, surrounded by barren mountains and went in an automobile first over plains, then through narrow valleys, then again over plains where for the first time I met with the Indians. I saw in the distance on plains for tents and met them riding and driving. Many, especially the old men, had pretty faces, strong, serious and dignified. The women were too stout and I saw only one beautiful girl, but she indeed was a beauty. Pretty eyes, well-formed, oval face and raven black hair, which in long plaits reached to her waist. All were dressed in usual dress, but these were embellished by colored ribbons and fringes. Umbrellas, especially red ones, were undoubtedly in fashion. Interesting types but not Indians according to my fancy fostered by Cooper's novels. Near by the Indian reservation the Jesuits had a mission, and a beautiful church—in reality one of the finest churches I have seen in America. I understand that the clever Jesuits will impress the minds of the simple Indians by the gorgeousness of the religious cultus. We crossed some heights and came into a broad, fertile valley with beautiful mountain ranges on both sides. Especially the eastern range with snowcapped peaks, the Mission Range was wonderful. The valley itself was fertile and irrigated but tedious, as it was quite treeless. The road was bad, the dust was foot-deep and as the air was terribly hot, we were happy when we, after having crossed a height, saw deep down a little city at the shore of a lake. Just as we arrived at the hotel a thunder storm broke loose, the thunder rolled, the lightning crackled and the rain poured down. I noticed this, as it was the only time during more than two months, that I had rainy weather.

The spectacle didn't last long, after a quarter of an hour the sun shone again, but the air had been cooled off. From the little city, Polson, I went by steamer over the lake. It was a big beautiful lake with the Mission Range to the East and the western shore covered with pretty forests and fruit gardens. Little forest-covered, rocky islands in the lake heightened its beauty. The crossing of the lake took about three hours and I arrived in a new, well-cultivated valley with fine ranches. I passed a little city, Kalispell, with a lake, but so like the other little cities, I had seen, as a twin, went on board of train, and as the darkness set in I reached Belton at the southern entry of Glacier Park. I found an excellent hotel, built like a Swiss chalet—cheap and good. The Government takes care of the hotels in and near the Glacier Park and fixes the prices. It was a pretty morning when I crossed the broad Snake river, which tumbled swiftly over boulders and rocks and entered the park. A broad highway like an avenue with stately firs on both sides took me through the forest to the shore of the McDonald lake.

This was a pretty mountain lake with the greenish-blue, clear water characteristic for the lakes, which get their waters from the glaciers. The slopes on both sides were covered with dense forests and the back ground snow covered peaks rose up or the treetops and marked their hardy contours against the blue sky. A little steamer took us over the lake. We were only a few passengers on board—acquaintances were soon made and a young fellow asked for permission to join me for some days on my walk. We arrived at a beautiful hotel at the eastern shore of the lake. Especially the hall was pretty with a big fireplace and stately tree trunks carrying the roof. The room was decorated with pretty hides of bear and heads of mountain sheep and goats, especially the last ones were beautiful with their long snow white goaties. After an excellent lunch we went away. The trail took us through a dense forest of big, tall conifers. Little creeks half filled with boulders crossed the trail, which continually went upwards. I confess that after half an hour I was tired, my pack on my back was heavy as lead, I lost my wind from the climbing and I was almost cursing my foolishness undertaking mountain climbing, but little after little I overcame the weariness and commenced to enjoy the walk through the dense silent forest, that was filled by a wonderful perfume from trees and flowers.

We walked for some hours continually upwards, but the forest hindered us from seeing the landscape and it was stifling hot amongst the trees, which were so dense, that only a single sunray once in a while could reach the ground. At last we reached an open place at the mountain side and had a beautiful view over the waving treetops deep down under us and up in the height we discovered the chalet, where we intended to stay. For more than two, three hours we climbed upwards, we left the dense forest back of us and in front we had a fine mountain valley with chalet located on a shelf. We passed deep snow drifts and arrived at last at our goal exhausted and dripping wet from sweat. My first experience in mountain climbing had been more fatiguing than I had supposed, though it only had been a walk of 8-10 miles.

WOMEN DEMAND WARS SHALL END

Peace League Means More to Them Than It Can Mean to Men.

DR. SHAW'S STIRRING PLEA.

(By the Late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.)

Seven million one hundred thousand men who had laid down their lives in the great war. Think of it! Seven million, one hundred thousand young men had died on the field of battle!

What does that mean to the women of the world? It means that seven million one hundred thousand women wake today by day with their faces toward an open grave that they might give life to a son. It means that seven million one hundred thousand little children lay in the arms of a mother whose love had made them face even the terrors of death that they might become the mothers of men.

It means that year after year these women had put up their lives into the lives of their sons until they had reared them to be men. For what? In the hope that these sons of theirs could give to the world the things for which women dream, the things for which women hope and pray and long. These were the things that the women had in their hearts when they gave birth to their sons.

But who can estimate the value of seven million one hundred thousand dead sons of the women of the world? Who can estimate the price which the women have paid for this war; what it has cost them, not only in the death of their sons, because that is a phase of our war to which we look.

The Courage of Women.

We hear our orators tell us of the courage of our men. How they were across the sea, very few of them remember to tell us of the courage of our women, who also went across the sea; of the women who died nursing the sick and wounded; the women who died in the hospitals, where the terrible bombs came and drove them almost to madness. They tell us nothing of the forty thousand English women who went to work back of the trenches in France.

They tell us nothing of the thousands upon thousands upon thousands of women who not only tolled and worked and slaved in order that the war might be successful, but we do not hear of the thousands of women, not alone in Armenia, not alone in Montenegro, not alone in Serbia, but in Flanders, in Belgium, in Rumania, in Russia—the thousands of women who lie in graves today, murdered, so horribly murdered that men dare not speak of it.

And yet we women are asked what we know about the League of Nations? asked what we can understand about a League of Nations. Oh men! the horrible deaths; the horrible lives of thousands upon thousands of women to live in all these nations, who must live, and who must look in the faces of children unweaned, under the shadow of little children—and know that these are the result of war.

And then ask women why they should be interested in a league of peace?

Women Suffer Most From War.

If there is any body of citizens in the world who ought to be interested in a league to ultimately bring to the world peace it is the mothers of men, and the women who suffered as only women can suffer in the war and in devastated countries.

And we call upon them, we women of the world call upon the men who have been fighting all these battles of the years, the men who have led armies, and led armies close to their deaths.

We are now calling upon the men of the world to in some way or another find a passage out of the sea of death. We are asking them to form a league which will bring hope to the women of the future. If women are to bear sons only that they may die, if women may not have hope and aspirations for their children, if women may not dream the dreams that have in them the hope of the highest civilizations, the highest moral and spiritual life of the people—if we women may not have these in their hearts as the mothers of men, then women will cease to desire to be the mothers of men. And why should they not? Why should they not?

No community has a sufficient number of special hospitals for their treatment and cure. The United Doctors have solved the problem. Their highly-trained Specialists go to each community and will advise a proper course of treatment for the sufferers and instruct them how to take care of themselves at home. No matter what you have heard with other physicians, consult him on it. It costs nothing. If your case is incurable he will give you advice as may stay and relieve the disease.
